English for the more able

Supporting schools to challenge more able learners through the English primary curriculum

Offered in partnership with education publisher Rising Stars, this national conference promises an unmissable day of practical ideas and inspiration to ensure your more able learners are fully engaged, challenged and supported to fulfil their potential through the English primary curriculum.

The event builds on last year's highly successful conference on this theme, which explored emerging approaches to meeting the needs of more able learners in English in the context of the new national curriculum and assessment frameworks. One year on, the conference returns to share evidence-based strategies and practical examples to support effective teaching for the more able in primary English, making creative and flexible use of mastery approaches and curriculum enrichment to deepen and stimulate learning.

Join fellow teachers, school leaders, subject specialists and more able coordinators to debate, evaluate and exchange approaches and resources to improve the quality of challenge in this key subject across your school.

Conference highlights include:

- Opening keynote: "Pitching it right, taking it deeper" - Anne Fine
- Workshops on mastery, immersion, reciprocal reading and more
- Practical ideas to provide challenge through KS1 and KS2
- Guidance for school leaders and subject coordinators
- Exhibition: explore the latest resources for more able learners
- Opportunities to network and exchange good practice.
